Title: Emotional Suicide
 Artist: EMOTIONAL SUICIDE

For fans of Satan / Pariah, early Metallica, Megadeth and Marshall Law. Four bonus tracks (studio demos) and 20 pages booklet. Remastered in 2022. The album was mostly recorded LIVE IN THE STUDIO! Produced by „Jono“ (Gary Moore and others). The original CD from 1993 was once used for promotional purposes only! After the US band FATHOM NAGG, the Golden Core label has once again managed to present an album that is unknown even to insiders and the most passionate collectors! This CD of the same name by the English band EMOTIONAL SUICIDE was released in 1993, produced by the band themselves and used primarily for promotional purposes. The early break-up of the group (1994) and an original cover art reminiscent of a Sisters Of Mercy album didn't really help, despite radio airplay on the BBC's Friday Night Rock Show. And so this musical treasure remained on the floor of the heavy metal ocean for a long time...until April 2022! Emotional Suicide were formed in 1992 by Mark (Witty) Whitlock, Bud Rogers and Jase Manning after playing together at The Cut. Drummer Mark Thorman (Big Brother) joined and the plan to make heavier music than previous bands was implemented. After a few demos, the still somewhat different „The Word“ EP was recorded. The song „It“ turned out to be a trend-setter and later ended up on the debut, which was recorded in March 1993. In only seven days, they created an organic, addictive album with producer Jono (Gary Moore, among others), which is not easy to stylistically classify. In some moments, the vocals are reminiscent of Michael Jackson from Pariah or Satan, while the riffing is sometimes similar to Metallica or Megadeth. On the other hand, the typical aesthetics of the nineties, can only be found in a few moments. In cooperation with the band, this re-release was provided with a new cover artwork and the entire design differs somewhat from the other Golden Core reissues. Here, the terms „re-release“ and „new album“ are mixed in an unusual way, since almost nobody knows the original... The 20-page booklet contains the lyrics as well as the usual photos and liner notes. The album was remastered under the vigilant ears of Neudi's band members and includes four studio demo tracks as a bonus.

Title: The First Experience With The Unknown

Artist: SACRAFICE

In the Detmold area, there wasn't much going on for metal fans in the first half of the eighties. Fortunately, the members of two bands met in 1982 in a chip shop and recognized their common preference for hard music by their long hair, leather jackets and moustaches, which were good manners at that time. In this moment SACRAFICE were born, who subsequently became local heroes - of course influenced by the NWOBHM that was just spilling over into Germany, but also by the usual suspects like Black Sabbath, Deep Purple, Rainbow or Kiss, as well as Judas Priest and the early Accept. Two unusual choices were made at once: In the spirit of Def Leppard or Led Zeppelin, the band name was deliberately changed - i.e. NOT Sacrifice, but Sacrafice. And they decided not to make the typical demo tape, but a 12" EP on their own. This one is called „The First Experience With The Unknown“ and can be bought here and now on Discogs for 120 Euro and more used.... But already the book „Heavy Metal Made In Germany“, which was published in the nineties via Iron Pages, lists the record as „Top German Metal Rarity“. No wonder, because the quite aggressive heavy rock and metal knows how to please even today - or maybe especially today - and reminds us of the upbeat mood of the German metal scene in the first half of the eighties. This also applies to the three live tracks, which have been elaborately restored in days of work. Another house number are the six tracks of the follow-up band TranQuill (exactly, that's the correct spelling). The mostly overlong songs can be classified as heavy prog. Due to various circumstances these pearls remained (as good as) unreleased. Again, a lot of time and work was invested to restore and master these private studio recordings. As always, the booklet (later on the vinyl then the inlay) contains liner notes (actual interview with a former band member). Photos and other illustrations.

Title: Reminiscing At Rudy'sArtist: HOUSTON PERSON

Tenor saxophonist Houston Person's playing has a lot in common with a perfectly brewed cup of coffee. Both are bold, satisfying, smooth, eye-opening and addictive once experienced. Whether it be during smoldering blues-tinged numbers ("Please Send Me Someone to Love"), up-tempo takes on old favorites ("At Long Last Love," „Moon River"), or steamy, sultry, late-night ballads („Put Your Head on My Shoulder"), Person never fails to deliver a performance where expressivity is the order of the day. The band is made up of a hand-picked group from Person's cadre of regular colleagues with guitar great Russell Malone adding his imaginative voicings and swinging rhythms to the mix. The album's title is an homage to Houston's engineer of choice, the legendary Rudy Van Gelder. Person's very first recording as a leader, the 1967 Underground Soul!, was done at Rudy's fabled Englewood Cliffs studio and they continued their friendship and working relationship until Van Gelder's passing in 2016. But this is a not a backward-looking memorial album. That is not Person's style. If you go by his busy performance schedule and his extensive discography, Houston Person is, like his fans, always looking forward to his next gig.
