Title: Live

Artist: RAPHAEL WRESSNIG & IGOR PRADO

From New Orleans-style funk to soul and rhythm & blues, Wressnig's percussive and greasy Hammond sounds conjure dynamic, high-voltage music. Old-school and new-school rendezvous in his style and his sound combines an authentic soul & blues vibe and a "lowdown" feel with a contemporary funk edge for a unique listening experience. Together with the Brazilian guitar master Igor Prado he shows the bright potential of soul, blues and funk in a modern world and will give the audience a new way to experience these old genres.

Raphael Wressnig - Hammond B3 organ

Igor Prado - guitars

Yuri Prado - drums & percussion

Quotes:

„Oh yes, Raphael plays a dynamic brand of B-3, his passion commensurate with his technique and his creative intelligence. He's a high-voltage dynamo but also a musician of surprising delicacy and self-reflection. Call him one of the finest blues/funk/jazz B-3 operators anywhere.“ (DOWNBEAT MAGAZINE)

„Igor Prado is a high-class guitarist. No wonder the Brazilian was nominated for a blues-music-award in the United States!“ (ROLLING STONE MAGAZINE)

Title: Crucifixion

Artist: EXCESS

From the Ludwigshafen area (Germany) came one of the first death thrash bands of the region and became a breeding ground for musicians who are active in successful, if stylistically different sounding groups today. However, you don't have to be a fan of Crematory, Mystic Circle or Blood to like Excess (later: Malignity), or even find them fascinating, but the traditional roots clearly reveal themselves. Excess was founded in the summer of 1988 and after a short time the first line-up was formed with Harald Heine (bass, vocals), Thorsten „Smog“ Aschenbrenner (guitar) and Markus Jüllich (drums). They shared a rehearsal room reeking of rotten beer with the locally hip thrash band Sudden Darkness, whose material was also released on Golden Core via double CD a few months ago. The guitarist of this group recorded the first Excess demo „Torment Of Death“ with simple means, but at least already with a multitrack recorder, which sounds amazingly good for the circumstances. Many a black metal band in the nineties would have liked to have this sound on their album. Of course, the technical skills were still very limited with the three musicians here, but it is this „forced primitive“ that makes these five tracks so authentic, but also brutal. You can't plan or consciously create this aesthetic. The most famous and certainly most popular demo opens the CD: „Crucifixion“ from 1992. Reinforced with singer Clausi (later active for many years with the grindcore band Blood) and with a change on the drums, they offered a real quantum leap, but without leaving the simply kept mix of death, thrash and in places doom. The production of Guido Holzmann (Economist, Mystic Circle, Graveworm, etc.), whose studio was still under construction in 1992, is to this day an incredible, yet transparent „Wall Of Sound“ that is unparalleled. The renaming to Malignity was followed by the last demo before three of the four musicians joined better known acts, with whom they served different scenes than the ones they started with as Excess/ Malignity. Nevertheless, all involved agreed to this re-release and support the work on it. So now a gap in the history of German death thrash can be closed. The best possible sources were available for the LP! „Crucifixion“ was available as DAT tapes (master) and was overdubbed by Eroc (Grobschnitt). All other tracks were available as original master tapes and were digitized for the first time. During this work they also found an unreleased live track. Thorsten „Smog“ Aschenbrenner gives interviews in the course of this release!

Title: Brennende FragenArtist: ALEX

Full-blooded musician, accomplished singer, profound songwriter. And: a person with backbone. That is ALEX. Born in the former USSR, today living in the Ruhr area, he is a one-man creative factory. One who thinks about the world and his fellow human beings. Does not keep behind the mountain with his views. And asks „burning questions“ in his songs. „Brennende Fragen“ is the title of the 10-track album, he has worked out together with guitarist Gregor Hengensbach. A mixture of self-written time and socio-critical lyrics and high-quality, leaned back rock. Soft sounds and hard words.
