Title: It's Going To Be A Great Day

Artist: RADUX

From the ashes of various bands RADUX was formed in 2013. Soon the newly formed band rocked the clubs of Finland. The first two demos were, as it should be, released on cassette in 2016. The first big coup was then in 2018 the vinyl on Svart Records: the EP „Disaster Imminent“, which was also released on CD (with the live recording „Crash Landings“ as a bonus) by Golden Core in 2023 and got 8 out of 10 points in Rock Hard magazine, among others.

This gave the band, whose line up has solidified in the meantime, enough time to work on the debut „It's Going To Be A Great Day“. It was also produced by Arttu Hällila (Imperia among others). The comparison to the debut of Nuclear Assault can't be denied, but Radux have enough independence to make a name for themselves in the long run. There are only few breathers and the term „oldschool“ is also in the first place. The cover artwork is reminiscent of the socially critical thrash albums of the late eighties.

Who wants a portion of adrenaline in high speed, has found the right medicine in Radux. Oldschool thrash can't sound any more intense.

Title: Wetiko (EP)
Artist: SCROLLKEEPER

In 2016 SCROLLKEEPER formed in Houston, Texas to celebrate traditional and original heavy metal. The first sign of life was the EP „Fortune Favors The Bold“, which was recorded during rehearsals for the first show, opening up for Hammerfall. Further gigs with Dirkschneider, Manilla Road, Angra or Cloven Hoof were to follow. The song „Surrender“ made it onto the compilation „Doomed And Stoned In Texas“, on which acts like Solitude Aeternus or Deadhorse played.

More EPs and singles were made available on the digital way. In 2019, they again played high-profile shows with bands like Saxon, Voivod, Enforcer, Warbringer or BTR. SCROLLKEEPER's first album, „Auto Da Fe“, was also initially only available digitally, but was then made available physically by the label True Metal Records. On the Golden Core sampler „Damn, This Stuff Is Heavy - Vol. 2“ you can find the track „Devil's Calculus“.

In 2021 they were briefly without a drummer and so the idea came up that the German drummer Neudi (ex-Manilla Road, Trance, Griffin, Jameson Raid, Roxxcalibur, ex-Savage Grace, etc.) would record three tracks for the upcoming EP „Wetiko“. Meanwhile, they have a permanent drummer in Krystal Salinas, who can be heard on the three other tracks on the EP. The last song is of course a cover version of Hallow's Eve and for this they could win their bassist Tommy Stewart as a guest. „Metal Merchants“ rounds off the disc perfectly.

Scrollkeeper are both traditional and idiosyncratic. This can be addictive after a few runs...
