Title: Psychic Distance
Artist: INFERNO

1993 was certainly not the best period for traditional heavy metal. INFERNO, from Florida, may have tended towards American prog metal, but this style too was struggling to establish itself in the face of grunge, crossover and other modern trends, all of which, unlike traditional metal, eventually disappeared from the scene. True metal fans were nonetheless pleased that the new Massacre Records label was releasing quality metal from the likes of Mystik, Forte, Ritual, Winter's Bane and INFERNO. Those who discovered „Psychic Distance“ at the time are still raving about the album to this day...

Without Massacre Records, INFERNO from Jacksonville, Florida, founded in 1988, would today be a band with just three cassette releases. The first demo was released in 1992, followed by the album „Psychic Distance“, released only on cassette for budgetary reasons. In 1995, another demo called „Architect“ followed, and has become just as „famous“ in underground circles over the years.

Both fomats have their unique features! The LP represents the very first vinyl release of „Psychic Distance“. The CD contains, in addition to the remastered album, the aforementioned „Achitect“ demo, mastered from the original DAT tape. A recent interview with two members of the former band fills exciting liner notes, as do many rare photos to be seen (CD booklet and LP insert).

American metal fans will love this release!

Title: Off The Charts
Artist: RICHARD BARATTA

When it comes to musical material, a nexus between quality and reception is never a sure thing. Some choice compositions and performances receive their flowers while others slide into relative obscurity. Off the Charts takes an inspired set list of lesser-known works by the likes of Wayne Shorter, Bobby Hutcherson, Charles Lloyd, Chick Corea and others and brings them back into their well-deserved spotlight. Delving into the past calls for a cast attuned to the present, and Richard Baratta has assembled an incredible lineup. Pianist David Kikoski comes with his own brand of kinetic energy, bassist John Patitucci serves as the backbone of the band, tenor saxophonist Jerry Bergonzi brings his signature sound to the fore, and percussionist Paul Rossman proves to be a vibrant colorist and rhythmic collaborator. Together, with Baratta spurring them on, this crew brings out the best in this superb selection of inspired music.

Title: Compton's Finest
Artist: BRANDON SANDERS

The only thing drummer Brandon Sanders has to prove on Compton's Finest, is his musicality. Here making his recording after being a successful, professional musician for nearly three decades, Sanders is past the youthful need for flashy pomp and circumstance. He instead focuses on serving the material—and supporting an ace roster of bandmates that includes vibraphonist Warren Wolf, tenor saxophonist Chris Lewis, pianist Keith Brown, and bassist Eric Wheller—with taste and maturity. Based in New York, Sanders grew up in Compton, California—the famously troubled Los Angeles suburb. The title of the album is in the spirit of celebrating rather than denigrating the drummer's hometown. Between the lively, genial readings of the standards, the melodic soul of Sanders's two originals, or the masterful vocals from special guest Jazzmeia Horn on Stevie Wonders's "I Can't Help It" and Duke Ellington's "In a Sentimental Mood," Sanders' maiden voyage on record is a serious accomplishment.

Title: Horror HotelArtist: SPIELFILM

When Professor Driscoll sends student Nan Barlow to research witchcraft in Whitewood, Massachusetts, she stumbles upon a sinister cult.

She stays at the local hotel, that happens to be run by a witch burned 250 years ago. Welcome to Horror Hotel! Nan soon finds out that all the hotel boarders are witches, and that she is about to become their annual ‚Candalmas Eve‘ sacrifice.

This classic horror thriller offers an abundance of eerie atmosphere... limpid fog and all.

Title: Rat Krespel
 Artist: SVEN GÖRTZ

Audio book in German language

E.T.A. Hoffmann (1776- 1822)

Master Krespel, a rather strange fellow, is a gifted violin maker and the father of a beautiful daughter who also possesses great singing talent. Krespel is always on the lookout for the particular sound of each violin - but he has to destroy the instruments to get to the bottom of it. He leaves one particular violin untouched, however, because it seems to be magically linked to his daughter. The latter is forbidden to sing, as a mysterious ailment means that every note she sings brings her a little closer to death...

In this perfect example of Romantic literature, Hoffmann, an admirer of Beethoven, emphasizes the mythical dimension of music and its influence on man.
