Title: Weihnachtscircus
 Artist: BONNER WEIHNACHTSCIRCUS

The Bonn Christmas Circus presents a sensational program featuring artists from all over the world.

The Gerlings' wheel of death showcases real prize winners from the Monte Carlo International Circus Festival. What these guys have to offer is almost beyond imagination. A somersault or relaxed rope jumping on the wheel of death at full rotation? No problem for this daring troupe. Once you've seen their incredible acts on the "4 Wheels of Death," nothing will shock you anymore.

No less spectacular are the performances of the duo Vladimir (known from America's Got Talent, among other things): Not only do they offer hand acrobatics in flawless perfection, but they also work with freshly sharpened swords. Two men in a vertical position, between them two shiny blades whose tips barely touch and have to maintain their balance under the pressure of 80 kg of live weight – it's enough to make your hair stand on end.

Graceful and elegant, rope acrobat Miss Felice captivates the audience with her breathtaking performance. When she floats upside down under the circus dome, gravity seems to play no role.

Horse lovers will be thrilled by eight noble Arabian stallions, the famous "Hungarian Post" and a pony dressage show that has already delighted the Prince and Princess of Monaco. But there's plenty to make you laugh too: the hilarious star clown André Broger and Kenny Quinn, the "King of Pickpockets," will take care of that.

Sports entertainment is also provided by the "Flyboys" from Kiev and their sweat-inducing basketball show, who also offer humorous rope-jumping acrobatics as "The Minis."

Directed by Louis Knie Senior, the Bonn Christmas Circus offers a breathtaking and entertaining show full of sensations with 18 attractions.

Good entertainment is guaranteed!

Artist: THOM ROTELLA

Jazz guitarist Thom Rotella is back and this new release finds him spinning some soulful, sophisticated jazz that fans of his previous Savant Record, Side Hustle, won't want to miss. Over the years, Rotella has worked with some serious heavyweights like Norah Jones, Seth MacFarlane, Diane Schuur, and Stanley Turrentine, carving out a name for himself as a go-to guitarist in the world of jazz, pop, and studio work. On this project, though, the vibe is all about connection, chemistry, and that illusive spot where taste meets feelings. The always-funky Wil Blades on organ and the dynamic Charles Ruggiero on drums are on hand, laying down a rich, organic foundation for Rotella's blues-tinged guitar work to build upon. And that's just the beginning. Saxophone great Ernie Watts lends his unmistakable tone and lyrical phrasing to a few standout tracks, while trumpeter/composer Jeremy Pelt adds some brassy brilliance of his own. And on a couple of cuts, the always-stunning Tierney Sutton steps in with some haunting, wordless vocals that add a shimmering layer of depth, elegance, and quiet intensity to the music. Whether you've been following Rotella for years or are just joining the party, this record welcomes you from the first track. It's warm, it's savvy, and above all, it's honest. Just great players making outstanding music together.

Title: Love Letters (The Ballad Sessions)Artist: JD ALLEN

Tenor saxophonist JD Allen, well known for pushing the envelope with albums that mix electronics and advanced compositional techniques, takes a striking turn on his latest release. This time, he sets aside the modernist experiments and heads straight for the heart with an album made up entirely of ballads from the Great American Songbook. It's an unexpected move from Allen, and it reveals a different side of his playing—warm, introspective, and deeply lyrical. For this outing, he expands his usual chordless trio by bringing pianist Brandon McCune into the mix, joining longtime collaborators Ian Kenselaar on bass and Nic Cacioppo on drums. The addition of a piano brings a new layer of harmonic color, expanding the expressive range of the entire group while exploring the emotional possibilities within these classic standards. A soulful, stripped-down take on timeless tunes, this album showcases the depth and honesty JD Allen is known for, as he invites his colleagues to slow down and express something personal—with clarity, restraint, and quiet power.

Title: A Different PictureArtist: PETER WILSON

A synth-pop reinvention with heart, hooks, and retro soul.

After over three decades in the game, Peter Wilson returns with A Different Picture — his fourteenth studio album and a bold reimagining of his signature sound. It's a shimmering mix of 80s nostalgia, raw emotion, and fearless creativity.

Rooted in the golden age of New Wave, Italo Disco, New Romantic, and classic Synth Pop, the album nods to legends like Depeche Mode, Pet Shop Boys, Dead or Alive, and Yazoo, while embracing a fresh sonic edge. Fans of Wilson's PWL-inspired pop will feel right at home.

Nearly all tracks are self-written, offering his most personal lyrics yet — poetic, reflective, and full of metaphor — wrapped in lush synth layers and cinematic grooves.

Now signed to boutique Polish label Analog Language after 15 years with Energise Records, Wilson delivers his most melodic, introspective, and adventurous work to date.

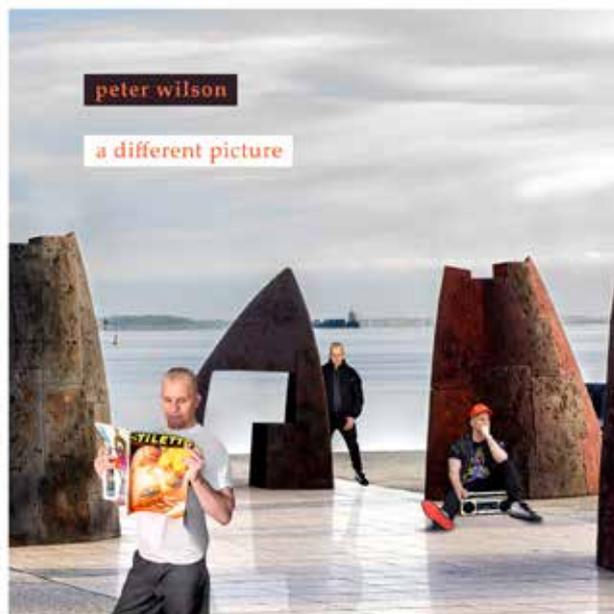

If you're craving heartfelt synth-pop with a nostalgic glow and modern soul, A Different Picture is the album for you. Out on Analog Language.
